BERLIN SUCCUMBS TO GOULD, 14-6

Gould's sixth straight victory over Berlin High proved a costly one as Les Streeter was lost to the team for the rest of the season. Agnes was also badly battered and his playing status is in doubt. Coming on top of Gordon Howe's loss in the previous game, Gould will be weakened considerably for their two coming engagements against Livermore Falls and Wilton Academy.

Gould started strong by ripping off big gains to score first in the early part of the initial period. Streeter scored the first T D with Lowell booting the extra point. Before the period was over however, Berlin scored with Len Keene scampering 15 yards after grabbing an Arsenal pass. The conversion attempt was missed and Gould led 7-6. There was no further scoring in the half.

In the third period after being stopped three yards short of paydirt Gould blocked a Berlin kick which was picked up by Bean who scampered 10 yards unmolested for the second score. Lowell again kicked successfully and Gould had a comfortable 14-6 lead. Berlin tried hard to rally but two Gould interceptions of passes stalled off aerial threats. It was the second defeat in four games for the Mountaineers. Gould has now won three, tied one and lost one.

On Saturday the Huskies will travel to Livermore Falls for one of the toughest games of the year. The Livermore Falls Club is favored to win, but Gould has turned the tables on the doers with regularity this fall. It should be the top attraction of the day in this vicinity.

THREE OXFORD COUNTY BOYS TAKE TWO YEAR AG. COURSE

Sixty-four students enrolled in two-year agricultural courses at the University of Maine on Monday. Of this number, 36 are first-year students.

The main purpose of the two-year program in agriculture is to provide practical vocational training for young farmers during the time when work on the farm is at a relatively low ebb, according to Dean Winthrop C. Libby, director of the two-year program.

Courses are offered in dairy farming, poultry farming, farm mechanics, potato farming and fruit and vegetable growing. The students take a variety of subjects which cut across the entire field of rural life.

A dinner for the two-year agricultural students was held in Hannibal Hamlin Hall, Monday evening. Speakers included Dr. Arthur A. Hauck, president of the university, Dean Arthur L. Deering, of the College of Agriculture, and Senley Jr., alumni secretary.

After the dinner, a get-together for the new students was held in Winslow Hall with members of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural society, serving as hosts.

Now students enrolled in the two-year program from Oxford County are as follows: Stanton D. Anderson and Elwyn D. Millett of Norway and Rodney B. Harrington, Bethel.

BOY SCOUTS

The parents of the scouts in troupe 165 are now in the process of cleaning and redecorating the new Scout Rooms over the Community Room. Any interested townspeople who have any article of furniture which they would like to donate to the troop may do so by contacting either Mr. Christie or Marian Hutchins, as anything and everything is needed.

In addition to chairs, benches, etc., the Scouts would like items which would create a scouting atmosphere, such as stuffed birds and animals, Indian relics, ropes, pictures, etc.

Paul Browne of Vassalboro was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Browne.

School Bus Overcrowded, Skillington Complaint Condition Now Remedied

The following statement regarding transportation of pupils has been received for publication:

Parents and Citizens of Bethel: Do you, the people of Bethel, realize the crowded conditions your children are forced to ride under to and from school on the school buses which are provided by your community and school board? Are you in favor of having these conditions exist as they are? If not, let your school board know.

Citizens of Steam Mill Village: Upon complaint of overcrowded conditions on the West Bethel bus, a check was made by the Bethel superintending school committee, finding that five extra high school students were riding out at night—more than the capacity of the bus. There are now 39 passengers riding on a 40 passenger bus which does not indicate overcrowding.

BOSTON BRYANT POND CLUB ORGANIZED 22 YEARS

A very enjoyable gathering was held at the Country Plate, Little Building, Friday evening, October 20, it being the twenty-second annual reunion of the Bryant Pond Club of Boston. In November, 1928, Woodstock decided to meet and organize a club to be known as the Bryant Pond Club of Boston. It was decided to organize on an informal basis, to have a dinner and program once a year, to have no dues or membership lists, and to make the reunions as free and informal as a gathering of the townspeople at Bryant Pond would be. The result has been that this club is now one of the oldest of the small home town clubs of Boston.

C. Roger Lappin of Lexington was the President who presided at the reunion this year.

Those who attended from Maine this year were Mr. and Mrs. Abner Mann of Bryant Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Mann of West Paris and Mrs. Florence Wentworth and Miss Mildred Wentworth of South Portland.

OLD PARIS MFG. MILL AT W. PARIS BURNED

The former Paris Manufacturing Co. plant at West Paris which was purchased at auction last spring by Penley Brothers, clothespin manufacturers, was burned flat Friday evening. Many homes and other buildings were in danger as a strong wind spread sparks over a wide area. Heat was so intense that paint was blistered on the railroad station 100 yards away and the platform caught fire, as did the roofs of the P. C. Hayhaw grain mill and the baseball park grandstand. Fire also spread to nearby woods.

The buildings burned were more than 50 years old, being originally a chair factory. It was later enlarged by the Paris Manufacturing Co. and operated several years. It was idle for some time until 1944, and during the war was run by the Oxford Wood and Plastic Corporation, making equipment for the U. S. Navy and Signal Corps. The successful bid of Penley Brothers was reported at $10,700.

The plant included a large saw room, machine room, boiler room, two and three story warehouse, water tower and small buildings. There were over 60,000 square feet of floor space. Lost in the fire were a carload of bagged sawdust, a carload of finished clothespins, and a carload of wire for making spring clothespins. The owners planned to use the building for clothespin manufacture within a few months.

The Editors Fight Back

Public opinion is the product of the public's thinking and the public's thinking is largely influenced by what people hear and see — the written and the spoken word, actions and reactions of the people — and the human instincts. In a totalitarian country the principal avenues of thought persuasion are controlled by the government, which seeks — usually with success — to shape public opinion to suit the desires of the governing bureaucracy.

In our country where freedom of speech and of the press are cornerstones in the structure of our way of life, an almost boundless area exists for moulding thought. Yet students of the national scene say that 10 per cent of our population determines the thinking of the other 90 per cent. This 10 per cent is made up of the thought leadership of the nation, the teachers, preachers, "leading citizens," radio commentators, union labor spokesmen, public officials, newspaper editors, writers, etc. And the propagandaists . . .

We have in our nation today about 600,000 propagandaists seeking a Communist "Soviet America" and probably a much larger number of fuzzy things who are working for a Socialist America which they envision and speak of as the "Welfare State." Inevitably these people attract attention with their arguments, their half-truths, their slanted propaganda. And they are found everywhere among the 10 per cent who determine the thinking which creates our American public opinion.

One of the most influential individuals in the category of thought leadership is the grassroots newspaper editor. He is unquestionably one of the staunchest in upholding fundamental Americanism. There are nearly 10,000 such editors in America and they constitute a great stimulus for clear thinking. This year these editors of small town dailies and weeklies, alarmed over the trend toward a Socialist "Welfare State," decided the time had come when patriotic citizens should do something extraordinary for their country. So they set an example.

They did a thrilling and wonderful thing. Two hundred editor delegates made a pilgrimage to Plymouth, Mass., and there on the hallowed ground they signed a "Mid-Century Rededication Compact" in the name of the nearly 600 members of the National Editorial Association. The idea was evolved and developed by Lester Williams, of the Columbia Progress, Columbia, Miss., and Howard Fowler, of the Mainland (Mass.) News. Many editors worked to make the pilgrimage a nationally significant event.

Allen C. McInnes, editor of the Rock County Star-Herald, Laverne, Minn., stood beside historic Plymouth Rock and delivered the rededication address. "Rebelling men have tried to bring us into false harbors of foreign ideologies," he said.

"Our State of Maine wallows in a trough of debt, buffeted by winds of special privilege and the pressure of worthless minorities. It drifts perilously close to the reef of disaster marking the belief that the government should support the people. . . . We Americans of today seek to avoid all struggle while we call the deadly system that decides us into thinking we can get something for nothing. We have been content to dream of the living world over us, while we snore at those who prize honesty and thrift."

The Compact signed said: "By the grace of God, having acknowledged by unanimous resolution

★ AUTOMATIC HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING ★

Maybe You Haven't Lived

HERE'S A TOUCHING STORY from A. R. Murfotian, New Plymouth, New Zealand. It is the kind of story that makes me want to make this column better and better. You will know why as you read. I quote Mr. Murfotian:

"If anyone had asked me a few weeks ago, what sort of a man I was, the reply probably would have run something like this: 'I am a normal sort of a chap who makes the best of things, and though my wife and I have our differences, we have managed to stick together for nearly 10 years.'"

"Then I read some of your columns and learned how other men suffered and how they pulled through, under a great variety of difficulties, and I realized that for all these years I haven't been living at all. I was either living in the past, worrying over lost opportunities, or else wondering and worrying about what the future held for me. I certainly had not lived."

"But now I have begun to live. I sleep like a log. One morning when my wife brought my breakfast to bed, I realized that she was virtually a stranger to me; that for nearly 10 years I had taken her for granted. Suddenly I decided that I was going to make her acquaintance, that what time remains for us to be together, is going to be real. There is only 'today' and every today is going to count."

"I once wrote of my experiences and called it 'And Things Came Right.' I now see that things never would have come right if I had continued to face them as I had been doing. But things are started right now."

If Mr. Murfotian has made even one of you readers know the value of living for the day, of looking yourself over and deciding to live not only for yourself but for others, what he has written will be so valuable that one couldn't afford the space in this paper to tell about it.

Washington

AS THE NOVEMBER ELECTION draws near and United Nations successes in Korea remove the issue of early reverses, Republicans are shying away from the Korean war as a campaign issue, while Democrats are taking up the cudgel and attempting to make the war there a refutation of earlier Republican charges of unpreparedness.

Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, taking up the earlier GOP charges of military unpreparedness, charged that our military successes were definite proof that the department of defense was not nearly so unprepared as Republican orators would have us believe, and Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York, following through, declared the GOP attacks on foreign policy and the Korean situation ill in "with Moscow's plan."

Chairman Owen Brewster of Maine, of the GOP senate campaign committee, switched from Korean war charges and said that "confusion, corruption and communism" are now the fundamental issues, and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, campaigning for his political life in Ohio, also switched from his attacks on the administration "blunders" in Korea to a denunciation of the Brannan farm plan.

In the meantime, it appeared that as soon as the congress reconvenes on November 27 the house and senate armed services committees will outline additional money and manpower needs. They said that inflation is hiking the cost of the rearmament program already underway and outlined plans for building up each branch of the services to maintain at least three million men under arms for some time to come. And General Lewis H. Hershey, head of the draft standards, longer service, induction of veterans and a tougher policy on dependency and other deferments.

There was every indication that moderation or repeal of the McCarran Communist control law will be sought when the congress reconvenes. Two Democratic senators who backed President Truman's unsuccessful veto, have signed an appeal in which they said the law would endanger individual freedom and would not safeguard the national security. The 10 are Senators Douglas, Illinois; Lehman, New York; Kilgore, West Virginia; Kefauver, Tennessee; Humphrey, Minnesota; Murray, Montana; Graham, North Carolina; Green, Rhode Island; Chavez, New Mexico and Leahy, Rhode Island.

Unbiased observers here put the latest bid of Harold Stassen, President of the University of Pennsylvania, for an interview with Joseph Stalin down as a form of "publicity propaganda." There is some question as to whether Stassen has violated a federal statute which prohibits individuals from taking such action which is clearly within the province of the federal government. GOP leaders are disclaiming any responsibility for Stassen's action.

Wesley Powell, executive assistant to Sen. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire, has been ruled off the ballot as an independent opponent of Sen. Charles W. Tobey in the November election. Powell came within 1,300 votes of unseating Senator Tobey in the primary and had announced he would seek election as an independent.

Also of interest politically is the Pennsylvania election wherein the liberal James H. Montross Duff, Pennsylvania governor, and victor over the Grundy political machine in that state, is the GOP senatorial nominee against Senator Francis J. Myers, Democrat. On the face of it, it would appear that the defeat of Duff would be an easy winner over Senator Myers. However, the political dogeaters declare that the bitterness between the Duff and Grundy-Pew factions of the Pennsylvania Republicans is so deep that the Grundy machine may throw its strength to Senator Myers rather than see Duff come off the winner.

With limits on cotton growing lifted, it appears that this commodity will be the first to be brought under government control under the new war powers act.

MAINE POTATOES ARE GOOD BUY, NUTRITIOUS, AND NON-FATTENING

Maine potatoes are a very good buy now, and they're nutritious and non-fattening, reports Dr. Kathryn Bivins, Extension Service specialist at the University of Maine. Prices of Maine potatoes are very low this year as a result of a large crop grown on reduced acreage. A medium-sized potato is no more fattening than a large apple or a banana. However, if butter or gravy is added the calories and your weight go up. Potatoes are a good source of vitamins C and other vitamins and im-

By LITTLE HULL

THE UNION LEADERS are roaring again! They are telling us that we have to pay more for everything we buy so that they can put on another dig show for their members. They are telling our government that war or no war their members must have their "rights."

American laboring men — be they union or non-union — are usually pretty good citizens. There are few in their ranks also, but 90 per cent of them would "tell you where to go" if you asked them to sacrifice the interests of their country so that they might squeeze a few more dollars for themselves. Unfortunately they are not asked. They are told. And it isn't so difficult to understand why they vote for a strike rather than be kicked out of a job or have their families molested.

There are decent union bosses and there are rotten ones. Under the Taft-Hartley law a union member can cast a secret ballot, but there are said to be ways, in a crooked union, to trace these ballots. If that is true, what would you do?

The union movement has become an essential part of our economy; but the power which certain leaders have acquired over the members is often so violently abused that upon several occasions it has actually endangered the lives of some of our citizens. Such a condition is ridiculous in a supposedly civilized nation. But the tentacles of these leaders extend deep into the politics of our country, and until we elect a congress with the guts to put its foot down hard when these men attack the rights of the American people, we may expect to be periodically informed that we must walk instead of ride, freeze instead of enjoy health, and starve if we can't transport our own food. War or no war, the union bosses are going to be a nickel they can bleed from the people.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLDTIMERS

From B. L. of Chicago: I remember when folks used to pile the family into the automobile and take "long" drives out into the country to sights of interest each Sunday.

From Mrs. Ella Bates of Salina, Kan.: I remember the days of the horseless carriage, later called the "gas buggy." Some of the earliest makes of cars were; the Mier, Mitchell, Brush, Rambler.

Gleason, Stevens-Duryea, Orient Duesenberg. These were popular in the first decade of the century. Then came the Stoddard-Dayton, Mercedes Roadster, National, Overland, the Flanders Twenty, the Empire. In the 1920s there were such makes as the R. V. Knight, the Franklin, the Gardner and the Maxwell.

From J. Roor Camry of Seattle, Wash.: I remember when "new-fangled" things began to interest me and when my father brought home an unbreakable lamp chimney. He dropped it on the floor to demonstrate. The next test was to flip drops of water from his fingertips on the heated lamp chimney. It burst into a hundred pieces and it was right over the buffet table on the dining room table!

portant minerals. They should be cooked with their skins on to retain these nutrients. Eat plenty of good Maine potatoes this fall and winter, says Dr. Bivins. Many ways of preparing and using potatoes are given in Dr. Bivins' Extension Service Bulletin No. 356, "Good Recipes for Maine Potatoes." Free copies may be obtained from county home demonstration agents at local Extension Service offices.

There are nearly 600 organized communities in Maine in which Extension Service work is conducted in agriculture, home economics or 4-H Clubs.

Unions Versus the Nation

By George
Feck

Our good neighbor to the North has just had a taste of what can happen to a nation when union labor leaders, intoxicated with power and using that power with ruthless disregard of the public, go on an all-out binge. For the 6-day period ending on August 31, Canada's railroad and telegraph companies were at a standstill and as a result the whole Canadian economy was disrupted.

The taste was distinctly unpleasant to the Canadian palate, and the cause of Union Labor was definitely given a black eye. As the Toronto Globe and Mail aptly put it during the course of the strike: "It is The Unions Versus The Nation." This time the nation won when the Canadian Parliament, meeting in a special emergency session, ordered the 125,000 striking railway workers to get back on the job. The workers obeyed the mandate.

But the Canadian people learned a lesson from this distressing experience — one which we in the United States would do well to study. The lesson is that no minority group must ever be allowed to threaten the welfare of an entire nation.

As has happened to some union labor leaders here in the United States, the leaders of Canada's railroad unions developed a consciousness of power that culminated in a state of arrogance and a total disregard for the rights of the Canadian people. So, for nine days our neighbors were deprived of railroad and telegraph facilities. Again quoting the Toronto Globe and Mail, that newspaper on the morning the trains started running again, had this to say:

"This situation is not a matter of the last few days. It has been growing in power and in away over the course of some union leaders for several years. This crisis has brought it into the open. That is why parliament cannot be content with passing a bill of temporary effect. It has been demonstrated of irresponsible leadership in many quarters, shouting for extreme actions. It is possible without exaggeration to project the acute tension of the last few days into the future, and see a worse situation in which a strike conflict might erupt into civil disturbance, aimed at destroying the Government."

"THE EPISODE HAS DEMONSTRATED THAT THE TIME HAS COME TO REASSESS THE RULE OF LAW IN THE CANADIAN COMMUNITY."

By the prompt action of President Truman in having the Federal Government seize our railroads we narrowly averted a similar harrowing experience to that of Canada. It is plainly evident that our Taft-Hartley law must be amended and watered down to protect the John Lewis and other arrogant labor leaders within our borders to strengthen it that no minority labor group can jeopardize the welfare and health of all of us.

It is crystal clear that some unions have become monopolies. We have registered our disapproval of industrial and business monopolies by enacting the Clayton and Sherman anti-trust laws. It is now time for Congress to broaden this legislation to curb labor unions whenever they become monopolies, so that no group, no powerful leader inflated with temporary power, may have the right to threaten the welfare of the entire nation.

If certain leaders have not the good common sense to restrain themselves from threatening the nation into disaster, then it is obvious that the American public must be protected against them.

This nation's voters will have an opportunity this year to demand such protection by supporting candidates who unequivocally declare themselves for retention of the Taft-Hartley law and amendments thereto to put more teeth in it.

The citizens of this country cannot permit any minority group to force its will upon them, either by threat or action. If it is to be a showdown, it is to be a case of "The Unions Versus The Nation," we the people must be fortified with laws that will insure victory for the nation.

A WORD TO WORK WITH
Today's word is security. It is quietness and security are closely related in thought. "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." (Isaiah 30:15) "Be still and know that I am God" (Ps. 46:10)

According to Roget's Thesaurus, safety, security, lower of strength, and protection are associated words, as are pledge, guarantee, and covenant; he also places close in meaning, hope, expectation, trust, reliance, confidence, etc.

Webster says security means freedom from fear. The question may arise as to where this freedom is to be found or how it is to be made one's own. Our Master, Christ Jesus is the way and the

CHARLES LAUGHTON TO APPEAR IN AUBURN, NOV. 18

Charles Laughton, who comes to the Edward Little Auditorium in Auburn, on November 18, is a man who was described recently by one critic as "having more lions in the fire than the Village Blacksmith." In addition to his current personal appearance tour with his "one man show" Laughton now has an actively functioning group whom he has trained in Hollywood.

This group, composed of 16 actors and actresses made its debut early this year with a highly successful production of "The Cherry Orchard" and so well was the production received that there have been numerous offers for "The Cherry Orchard" players both to go on tour this year and to appear on Broadway.

Laughton's reading "act" is now in demand from both television and radio sponsors and it is likely that 1951 will see the actor handling programs in both media. When he returns from his tour Laughton will set to work with Charles Boyer on rehearsals of George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" which Laughton will direct for a national tour.

At the age of 50 Laughton, a veteran of the movies, theatre and radio, has discovered a new career. It is reading to people from the Bard of Avon, Dickens, Thomas Wolfe, Aesop's Fables, the Bible, and any piece or good book that Laughton thinks audiences will like.

When asked why he undertakes such a rugged chore, Laughton answered the question with complete frankness. "Hollywood would be sure is a lot more comfortable than one night stands—but after all, where else but in a show like mine does an actor get the chance that every actor longs for—to play ALL the parts."

Judge not without knowledge, nor without necessity, and never without clarity.—Dr. Alex. Whyte.

The Bible has much to say on this subject of security. For instance: "Trust in the Lord and do good: so shalt thou dwell in the land and verily thou shalt be fed." (Ps. 37:31) "Cast away your confidence which hath great recompense of reward." (Heb. 10:35) "If thou prepare thine heart . . . thou shalt be secure, because there is hope." (Job 11:13-18) "If ye continue in my word . . . ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:31-32)

In hymn No. 53 in the "Christian Science Hymnal" is an invitation to "Rest beneath the Almighty's shade." And in "Rock of Ages" by A. M. Toplady we sing, "On this rock we are secure."

The Meaning of Freedom

INDEPENDENCE DAY, July 4, and Bastille Day, July 14, are both reminders of great triumphs which mankind has won in the struggle for freedom of the individual.

Recently a popular writer expressed the urgency of a nation's love of freedom in these words: "If a nation values anything more than its freedom, it will lose that freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that, too."

True freedom is spiritual and is God-bestowed and God-protected. Man, in the image and likeness of God, is spiritual and free here and now. The heaven of freedom has been working in the thinking of men during the centuries since Christ Jesus started an oppressed people with the simple words (John 8:32), "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Today, as then, there is need for men to understand, prove, and exercise their God-given freedom, a freedom which gives full dominion over the false beliefs of the carnal mind; freedom that awakens men from terrifying dreams of world unrest and war, greed and hatred among nations, poverty, sickness, sin, and death. . . .

It is the divine right of every individual to accept into his own experience the freedom and liberty that he is God-ordained to express as the perfect image and likeness of his perfect Maker, divine Mind. True freedom, divinely expressed in the experience of one individual, proves how freedom can be realized in the experience of a whole freedom-loving people, in fact by all mankind.

Real freedom with all its spiritual benefits can come to an individual, or a nation, or the whole human race through an understandable understanding of man's divinely ordained liberty. In a few simple lines in "Musclemann's Writings" (p. 183) Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, tells how this freedom is realized: "Man is free born; he is neither the slave of sense, nor a silly number to the so-called pleasures and pains of self-conscious matter. Man is God's image and likeness; whatever is possible to him, is possible to man as God's reflection."

—The Christian Science Monitor.

LUNCHEON MEAT GLAZED WITH SPICY APPLESAUCE

BAKE canned luncheon meat with a topping of spiced applesauce and then listen to the family ask for second helpings. The flavor blending of the fruit and meat give this main dish its claim to fame. You'll also find that canned applesauce and meat have convenience and economy in their affirmative rating.

A generous serving of meat can be had for 10 to 12 cents per portion. If canned luncheon meat is given meat billing, the 12-ounce container which yields four servings is not only reasonable in price to begin with, but it contains no bones or fat to discard. Proof of the popularity of canned meats in general is that their production has been increased 2 1/2 times in the last ten years. Some forty canned meat products are now being sold to the tune of over a billion pounds a year. The glaze for the baked meat loaf is spiced applesauce. This trim-is ready for instant use if canned applesauce is used. Here is the recipe for our fruit trimmed meat loaf.

Spiced Apple Glazed Meatloaf
2 12-ounce cans luncheon meat
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 No. 2 can applesauce
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 No. 2 can applesauce

Place meat together to form loaf in shallow baking pan. Score with sharp knife, making diagonal lines 1/2 inch apart. Place a whole clove in the center of each square. Combine brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg in saucepan. Moisten with vinegar and stir to a smooth paste. Add applesauce; blend well. Place 1/2 cup of applesauce mixture over scored meat loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 45 minutes. Heat remaining mixture and serve with meat loaf. YIELD: 8 servings.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

"BUT, JOHNNY, you walked yesterday," the baby's father says pleadingly, "now I come home and find you crawling again!" Father is a little out of patience with his 14-month-old son, especially since a neighbor's boy, a month younger, scoots around on two feet like a joyous penguin.

What Johnny's father hasn't done is to size up the build of the two youngsters. His own son is heavier, bigger boned, a potential power house. The other child is light, quick, small-boned—the type that often takes to its feet at 11 months.

As for Johnny's walking one day and crawling the next—well, don't you feel better some days than others? It takes some time for this balancing act we call walking to become the natural form of locomotion even after a child has learned the trick. So on days when baby isn't up to par or is concentrating on some new skill, such as learning to feed himself, he may regress to easier ways of getting around.

Besides, parents are apt to put too much importance on the age at which a child learns to walk. Early walking doesn't mean that a child is smarter than others his age, any more than delayed walking is necessarily a sign of slow mentality. However, if your child makes no effort to walk after 18 months it is advisable to consult your doctor. Nutritional disturbances and improperly assimilated calcium may be causes for delay in walking which you will want your doctor to check. If these have passed in fairly good building, it would be harmful to hurry the child into standing or walking. How legs and knee joints are a frequent result of the parents' impatience to have Junior walking as soon as the neighbor's child. There are ways, however, in which you can help a child get ready to walk. Giving him plenty of opportunity to kick from the day he is born is following nature's way of making strong feet and legs. Never let the baby wear tight stockings. Do not rock the blanket in tightly around the baby's legs. When the child starts to creep, don't try to hurry him through this necessary stage because he gets himself dirty. Creeping is nature's way of strengthening the abdominal muscles. The opposite concern is wise when the child learns to stand—that is, watch that he does not overdo this new performance for his feet may not yet be ready to carry the weight of his body.

Providing the child with incentive for walking is the parents' responsibility. If he is confined hour after hour in a small space, boredom alone would delay his getting about by himself. If you come every time he sees something he wants and hand it to him with a smile how is he to know, or care, that there is a way of helping himself?

I know one enchanting child of 18 months whose parents are worried because she doesn't build herself at her more active cousin does. But little Anne is enthralled by people—her friendly response, her charming acceptance of your attention are warm and lovely characteristics. Naturally, people come to her. Now if it were things that attracted Anne more, she'd be crawling or toddling about to get them. So don't forget that a child's learning of new skills depends as much on his interest as on his native ability.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

THIS WAS the end, Martha Lake couldn't stand any more. She had come to teach Slocum Prairie School because there was a teacherage beside the school, a house with four rooms, completely furnished. The teacherage stood for peace, quiet, time to write the history text book she had dreamed of.

She had felt she was getting something easy in School District Four with its 15 pupils. In the city she had 45. There were but six families in District Four—Lawndale, Jorgensen, O'Brien, Schulte, Van Matre and Brownstetter. Instead of lessening the work it had been increased, and this, her birthday, was the worst day of all.

Some birthday! She would resign, slip away this week end, forget the teacherage with its pine floors, rag rugs, gingham curtains, blue dishes and quilt.

Ignacio Lawndale, Jorgen Jorgensen, Gus Schulte and Mickey O'Brien were too much for her. The three big girls, Katie Van Matre, Madeline Brownstetter and Carla Jorgensen liked to bicker, brag and call names. Madeline would say: "I will be a nurse and give orders to generals on battlefields."

"Nurses TAKE orders," Katie would say. "You are bragging again."

"Bragging again," Carla would say. "I have something to brag about."

Madeline would answer. "And so have I!" Carla would say. "My mother is the best cook in Slocum Prairie. She won all the prizes at the county fair."

"For Norwegian lutefisk, lefse and waffles!" Madeline invariably answered.

"For pie and cake, too!" Carla would roar and burst into tears. It would take a woman with iron nerves to cope with the 15 youngsters here. Even the first graders: Benja Jorgensen, Kathleen O'Brien, Mattie and Lucy Van Matre, Irving Lawndale, Phillip Schulte—all the students—bickered. Sometimes it was the size of their bawls. Again it was their hybrid corn or big hay crop. Fifteen children, around 45, sounded like an old man's parade, which it hadn't been.

The day drew to a close. The children called their good nights, stomped out, banged the door. Martha would write her resignation now. She lay her head on her arms and slept.

Katie Van Matre awakened her. "Teacher, come with me to the teacherage and see what you shall see," the little girl urged.

Martha went with her. The six mothers and all the pupils were standing in the kitchen. They called: "Happy birthday, Teacher! SURPRISE!"

"We hope you have many happy birthdays," said Mrs. Jorgensen. "You are the best teacher we ever had, and you stay with us. The others stayed a month, six weeks, maybe two months. You teach good lessons and good manners. Carla and Jorgen like school now, and Jorgen is going to the university to study farming."

"Such a good school you made of District Four," said Lawndale. "My Ignacio studies his history for you, and he says he will be President someday. He does his chores good, Miss Lake, since you told him Lincoln did chores when he was a boy."

Mrs. Schulte spoke up and said Gus was going to study law, and Mrs. O'Brien said Mickey wanted to be a doctor.

"Other teachers slapped my hands when I drew," Carla Jorgensen said. "and you tell me I draw beautifully. I am going to study art."

When they had all spoken there were tears in Martha's eyes. RESIGN? What had she been thinking in Slocum Prairie. She won all the prizes at the county fair.

"Thank you for coming," she said. "You have helped me more than I can say. I will treasure your gifts and appreciate your kindness."

She stood in the doorway until the shadows swallowed her guests, then turned to the table, piled high with parcels, some wrapped in newspaper and tied with blinder twine. She opened them slowly, touched them reverently. The teacherage wrapped loving arms about her. The mischievous Slocum Prairie children assumed cherubic forms. This was her home, these were her people, and their children must grow into good men and women—into nurses, artists, doctors, lawyers, farmers—and PRESIDENTS!

WONDER IF FRED ALLEN was being self-critical when he made the remark recently that "television is a device that permits people who haven't anything to do to watch people who can't do anything."

Great a comedian as Fred in his TV debut was, at best a visual radio show. Just close your eyes and he was back on radio. Un-til he whips together as clever a video show as he had better stop voicing opinions. . . . That is, after all, like the calling the kettle black. . . . Speaking of TV we note that Jerry Lester has strong competition in the comedy field each night in the person of ABC's Fawn Harvey. . . . Laughs are about evenly divided. . . . James M. Asady's TV debut is being postponed indefinitely because of difficulty in casting. . . . Curt Massey may take his CBS musical to San Francisco soon to headline the opening of the Community Chest drive in the Bay City. . . . Veteran Bill Comstock is reviving his Tizzle Lish, famous in the early days of radio, for a guest appearance on Garry Moore's show in New York. . . . Must be true that vaudeville is dead and a television receiver is the box it's buried in. . . . Much as we enjoy listening to Arthur Godfrey it's getting a bit monotonous hearing all about Hawaii day in and day out. . . . Surely there must be some other subject he can discuss for a while and give the beautiful Pacific Islands and many fans a little rest.

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER

Now that Judy Garland has obtained her release from MGM where she made all her pictures to date, she may wind up in a Broadway show or on television. . . . She's angrier for both. . . . And Bing Crosby's paging her for his radio show. . . . It'll be good for Judy to get away from movies which obviously depressed her in the making. . . . The ring was no sooner on Lili Taylor's wedding finger when Hollywood columnists began gossiping.

WHEN YOU'RE USING PINS for sewing, wear a small pin-cushion at the wrist (left wrist, if you're right-handed), held with an elastic. In this way, pins can be salvaged very easily by putting in the cushion as soon as removed from the garment.

Always tuck the end of the thread onto a notch on the spool and it won't unravel when in the sewing box. If the notch breaks, it's a simple matter to make another one immediately with a razor blade kept in the sewing box.

If you sew regularly, you should have three pairs of scissors in the sewing box: for cutting, an 8-inch pair, for finishing seams, a 4-inch pair, and a small pair for cutting buttonholes, ripping seams and snipping thread.

To preserve needles from rust, put a piece of woolen material long enough to accommodate your longest needle, and wide enough to hold several sizes. Pink edges and use for sticking needles when not in use.

Keep several small, labeled boxes in the sewing kit in which you place discarded buttons, zippers and snaps taken from clothing that is of no further use.

Nobody's Business

Every now and then we hear complaints about the high taxes this year. Some of these taxpayers went to town meeting and some didn't. And some of those who did go didn't say anything—some did not vote. You know of course that one vote doesn't make any difference.

So far as school expense is concerned, this being the largest item in the local budget, Bethel is very fortunate. That's what we think anyway. Also we believe that the new school building is needed. Opponents of the idea apparently would be willing to sacrifice the opportunity of the children for adequate town school education, for an indefinite period, in the hope of lower building costs, bye and bye.

Of course these higher local taxes are unpleasant and inconvenient, but we should be glad in Bethel that the town does not operate on the deficit plan of the federal government, and wouldn't if it could.

GENERAL CHURCH PRAISES 5th RCT DRIVE IN KOREA

The following account of the action of the Fifth Infantry Regiment will be of interest to many people as Sgt. Parker Day is in this regiment which has been in Korea several months.

"24 Inf. Div. in Korea—The 5th Regimental Combat Team received high praise from Major General John H. Church at a recent press interview in which he discussed the 24th Infantry's recent victorious drive from the Nakdong to the Kum rivers.

"It was the 5th RCT's speedy capture of Waegwan against stiff resistance that broke the enemy's positions south of the Nakdong and made our crossing possible," General Church said. "Again north of the river, the 5th smashed through strongly held defenses and provided the impetus that started us rolling. I am proud to have 12 Col. John L. Throckmorton and his gallant regiment on my team."

"Prior to entering the Korean conflict, the 5th RCT was stationed at the original home of the 24th Division in Hawaii. Many of its members have previous service with the 24th Division in World War II."

The charities that soothe, and heal, and bless, lie scattered at the feet of men like flowers—Wordsworth.

girls in the county are the ones who say what the problems of the county people are, and a cooperative Extension program to solve these problems is drawn up annually by the Farm Bureau people and the Extension Service.

This gigantic educational service is financed jointly by the Farm Bureau dues, and county, state, and federal appropriations which are spent under the direction of the Extension Director and county Farm Bureau Executive Committees.

If the program is not what you believe is in the best interest of agriculture, home economics and rural youth, in Oxford County, discuss your views with one of the members of your Executive Committee.

The Wrong shall fall,
The Right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men!"
